

System Architecture Documentation

Generated from test_script.py

architecture

This document demonstrates diagram embedding in PDF generation.

Table of contents

- System Architecture
- API Endpoints
- Data Model

Other sections

System Architecture

The system consists of a frontend, backend, and database layer. The architecture diagram below shows the high-level components and their relationships.

API Endpoints

The API provides RESTful endpoints for user management and data access. The sequence diagram illustrates the authentication flow.

Data Model

The database schema includes user and order entities with a one-to-many relationship.